ERING. The sheepfold is a place wity for flocks at night. As usually in Oriental countries, it con we de a low, flat building, erected on the stered side of a valley and inclosed by who stene wall. A single door or gate related the entrance to the fold through the the shepherd might lead his flock the close of the day. No one except a set or robber would attempt to enter by whing the wall, inasmuch as this door an ample for all worthy purposes, demad to keep out only those who were not utilied to admission. Our Lord makes talements (verses 1 and 2), for the year of explaining the church—the Jew-acongregation and the assembly of New tament believers. That church is inseed to protect its members against the that is in the world, to give them there and comfort in times of trouble.

there is but one true mode of additional common and the stands within the fold. As there is a but way of estiming, toward the evening, there is a right way of going forth in mersing. The shepherd who left his is a life beesing for the night returns. It is not been so that the shepherd calls his own by same, without even entering, and recognizing the voice, responds the recognizing the voice, responds to any be in the inclosure, and how-truly they may mingle together, those way be in the inclosure, and how-truly they may mingle together, those way be being to him will appear. tally to distinguish Himself. He was braine, but the owner (I. Cor. vi:30), and hephard who would give His life towns His sheep.

DOWNING. Jesus next furnishes the life of two shapherd and not a hireling, the conduct is governed not by love two shapherd and not a hireling. The conduct is governed not by love two states but by love for men whom He cold save. That proof is His knowledge, two states have the knowledge of any ordistry paster, a knowledge of any ordistry paster, a knowledge of any ordistry paster, a knowledge of two kinds. He can distinguish them in a matter than the sheep and is known than He can distinguish Him. Heten to His will distinguish Him. Heten to His will distinguish Him. Heten to His will distinguish Him. Heten to His was multitude of humanity, wherever the known in return (Matt. xi:27). That was a marke an intimate relationship of parall and filial love, the reciprocal act of two persons of the Godhead. These moved by a translation of the unique twent his translation of knowledge (Matt. i:20-21). set moved by sympathy for the one in seril and by the hope of a possible support in peril.

HEINGING. Having announced Himself.

HEINGING. Here so had regarded themse vesse the favoritee of heaven, because of their escent from Abraham (John vill.29). not understanding that the covenant with that emisent patriarch was for the good of the race (Uen. xi.29). Neither did they know that the Messish, at His coming, would extend the kingdom of heaven, inviting man of all nations into it (Isa. 1:2). Hence, our Savior declared that His sheep were not all Jews (Isa. lvi:5), but that He had some in other folks, under other systems of religion. Here is an express acknowledgment that heathenism, bad as it was, had furnished some apritual nurture and care for some who belong to Christ (John 1:9), a liberality greater than is manifested by the average follower of Christ in our day. And yet, out of all these separate folds, fersish and Gentile, shall be gathered the true flock under the good shepherd, making one fold (verse 16), an event foreseen by the prophet (Esak. xxxvii:2) and declared the ward by the apastic (Bph. Il:14).

about Jesus in this lesson from His own lips. He is the door or entrance way into the church. Any other professing to hold that position is an impostor. He is the snepherd or bishop who cares for those who enter the church, protects them, saves them, loves them, leads them, dies for them. He is no thief seeking what is not His own, or hireling, serving another for wages, but a good faithful shepherd who sacrifices Himself in order to save. He is intimately related to God and to His people, that double relation being the key to His mission. See what Jesus says about the church. It is not a building or an organized body, but a company called by Him, known by Him, knowing Him, following Him, gathered out of all races, but united in Him as their one loved and loving leader, whom they follow with promptness and gladness always. This is what the passage teaches. The men who laud Chris, such words of His are in a perplexing dilemma. If He was not Divine then He was an egotist and an enthusiast. If He gathers a people to Himself upon these terms of loyalty He proves Himself before the world a Master of men, worthy to be followed.
